

Truthfulness

Continuing our Values education, “Truthfulness” theme I have included a link to the book: A Bike like Sergio's by American author, Maribeth Boelts, which is great for initiating a conversation about right and wrong.

After finding what Ruben thinks is a dollar bill on the floor, he pockets it and heads home. He soon discovers that the bill is actually worth $100, and must decide whether to buy the bike he's been eyeing or be honest and return the money.

Use these books as a springboard for conversation with your child about being honest, and how to handle a situation regarding the truth.

Why do you think Gandhi believed the truth should be told with gentleness?

Three things cannot long be hidden:
the sun, the moon
and the truth.
(Buddha)

What do you think the Buddha meant?

To make an apple pie
from scratch, you must first invent the universe.
(Carl Segan)

Searching after the truth needs us to think of the
'big questions'.
What are your big questions?

Truth is complete,
it needs no exaggeration.
(Anon)

It is sometimes tempting to exaggerate the truth to make something sound more impressive or exciting. Have you ever known this to happen?

Think about the above quotes and talk about the questions with your friends.

We Found a Hat

The wonderful Little Angel Theatre have created a performance for We Found a Hat by Jon Klassen and shared it on their YouTube channel! It's absolutely delightful and if you haven't had a chance to watch their performances of I Want My Hat Back and This is Not My Hat then you can watch all three together! They're a great way to keep children engaged and entertained.
